In lieu of granting leave to appeal, the Court orders that the matter is REMANDED to the circuit court. The Detroit Civil Service Commission failed to articulate at its April 20, 2005 hearing any basis for rejecting the hearing officer's report and failed to render written findings for the circuit court to appropriately review the matter. Accordingly, the circuit court should remand the matter to the commission for written findings to support its rejection of the hearing officer's findings and recommendation. The circuit court shall also treat petitioner's petition as a complaint for superintending control, and then review the commission's findings after remand. See In re Payne, 444 Mich 679, 687; 514 NW2d 121 (1994).

In all other respects, the delayed application is DENIED.
